

That was it. We never thought of being with anybody but each other.

Stacie and Jeff was that she found a cellist and violinist to play at their ceremony. "She did so much more than she had to," Stacie says of Jessica, "it was an amazing gift and I don't really know how to describe it."

After the ceremony, the DJ fulfilled Stacie's request to hear Coldplay's Viva La Vida as guests moved on to the cocktail party, which took place in the barn area. Afterwards, the party moved inside the Publick House for the reception. Guests were served spinach tortellini and cranberry walnut salad, and then feasted on roast native turkey with cornbread and sausage stuffing or prime rib with a popover. The DJ played and the guests danced nonstop. Looking back on it, Stacie reflects that the whole day was "pretty much a dream come true. I can't say in words what it was like."
